Woods Arsonist Arrested Using DNA

An arson investigator with the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Forestry used DNA evidence to arrest a man who allegedly used slow matches to start multiple fires in St. Tammany Parish, Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Bob Odom said.

"This is history-making for us. Until now, this department has never used DNA to solve a woods arson. It could possibly be the first time in the U.S.," Odom explained. "Our enforcement officer, Roy St. Pierre, put much effort into making sure his investigation was performed in a top-notch manner using both old-school and innovative techniques."

Kenneth W. Singletary, 46, of 72533 R Singletary Rd. in Pearl River, was arrested last month and charged with two counts of simple arson and two counts of manufacturing and possessing delayed-action incendiary devices (slow matches).

Singletary, a school bus driver, allegedly began setting fires in January 2006 on La. Hwy. 1088 between La. Hwy. 36 and Interstate 12. The fires were set at similar times and near the same location. St. Pierre, working with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, the St. Tammany Parish Sheriff's Office and the U.S. Forest Service, began surveillance of the area and eventually investigated 18 "sets," or fires. He located 10 delayed-action incendiary devices at the scenes and submitted them to the Louisiana State Police Crime Lab for analysis. Additional evidence matched DNA on the devices and arrest warrants were issued.

"Team work really paid off in this investigation. Roy laid the ground work and had a lot of support from the other agencies that led to the eventual arrest of this suspect," Odom said. "I'm a firm believer in sound science whether it relates to woods arson investigations or growing crops, and sound science is what made it possible to solve this case."

St. Pierre said most of the fires allegedly set by Singletary were quickly contained, but had the potential to do severe damage to valuable timberland and any structures nearby.

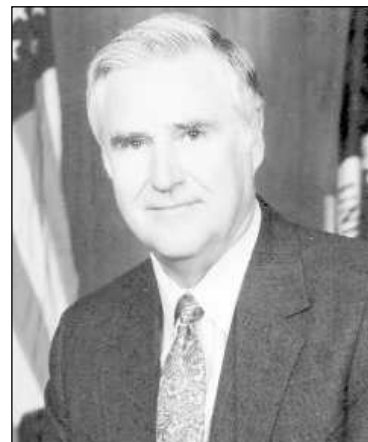

"Any time a wildfire is set, it can cause unbelievable destruction to land, trees and homes and endanger lives. The other problem is each time we have to go out to a set like these, we're possibly taking away manpower and equipment from other accidentally-set wildfires," St. Pierre said.

Odom reminded Louisiana citizens that there is still a lot of debris left from the hurricanes increasing fuel for wildfires.

"Burning outdoors remains dangerous, especially during high winds. I urge everyone to check the weather and call your local municipality before burning outside," Odom cautioned. "And if you're thinking about purposefully setting woods fires, be forewarned - we investigate every fire and more than likely, you will be caught. Arson is a serious crime; it's a felony and the penalty includes fines and jail time."

Did You Know:

Agriculture and Forestry Commissioner Bob Odom appeared before the House Ag Committee last month to promote ethanol and biodiesel production as an alternative market for Louisiana farmers.

"I'm a firm believer in diversifying your farm business to include crop production for food and fiber, cogeneration for electricity and ethanol or biodiesel production for fuel," Odom said during his appearance. "In order to survive in farming today, you gotta have these three components."

House Ag Chairman Francis Thompson, who authored a current bill for ethanol and biodiesel, believes production of the renewable fuels will move Louisiana ahead of other states in the alternative fuels market.

"We have the opportunity to be first in something positive for a change. Louisiana farmers are struggling while petroleum companies earn record profits. It would be wonderful if the two could join hands to produce renewable fuels," Thompson said.

After speaking to the committee, Odom said the phasing out of the fuel additive MTBE is causing concern among those in the oil industry about the available supply of ethanol.

"If there's a shortage, we need to jump on it. That's what economic development is all about - seeing a need or a niche and making a product to fill the void," Odom said. "An ethanol plant in Louisiana would be a great boon for some of our struggling rural communities and it lessens our dependence on foreign fuel, not too mention it's friendlier to the environment. We have plenty of farmers in this state that can produce the crops necessary to make ethanol big business here. In a couple of weeks a biodiesel plant will open in Pollock. That's a first step in the right direction."

Odom said he is currently working with several private investors to bring an ethanol plant to the Lacassine Industrial Park.

"There are three states that currently mandate 10 percent ethanol in their gas and Minnesota passed legislation to increase theirs to 20 percent by 2013. This is the future and it's something we need to embrace as a state."

The measure Odom was speaking on behalf of, House Bill 685, was approved by the Ag Committee and will now be taken up in the full House of Representatives.
